

Weminche Grazing

March 29, 2016

Received

APR 05 2016

Columbine Ranger District
San Juan National Forest

postmark:

3/30/16

I feel that grazing on the Weminche is important because.

- It helps to preventing wildfires
- Keep grasses from over growth
- Education is needed for recreational impact.

Then if the ranch does not have any grass on their ranch, they put like their sheep and cows on an allotment. Also makes jobs for people. It gets more people in farming and ranching. The animals poop helps the soil. Also a cow and sheep's hoof print makes a hole and then a seed goes in the hoof print and grows. So like a horse's hoof print doesn't go in the ground like a cow's hoof print.

From: Benjamin, Kalem, Samle Elliott
TO: Forest Service

P.O. Box 49
Bayfield, CO 81122